By Seshadri Ramkumar

India will set up four new Centers of Excellence in technical textiles in addition to the existing as part of the newly approved Technology Mission on Technical Textiles (TMT). It was revealed to this writer by a senior Government of India official. The government proposes to have $40 Million Investment in Technical Textiles R & D--the eight CoEs will have investment in tune of $40 million

The four new centers will be created with an investment of $22.2 million. One center exclusively for nonwovens and one for composite materials are planned. The four existing centers that focus on geo textiles, medical textiles, protective textiles and agro textiles have so far received $9.8 million. Additional investment of $8 million will be disbursed to these four centers to enhance their R & D capabilities.

The major thrust of the TMTT is to boost the growth of technical textiles industry which includes, industrial fabrics, coating, nonwovens and converting sectors. The TMTT will assist entrepreneurs and researchers to enhance process, product and marketing knowhow in technical textiles. India's technical textiles sector is estimated to grow at an annual rate of 11%.

Investors will flock to gold on inflationary fears

Over time, more investors will migrate to the inflation camp -- recognizing inflation for what it truly is, and even more worrisome, recognizing the long-term inflationary consequences of the Fed's loose-money quantitative-easing policies.
